Event	6th Annual Ladies' Tournament
Species	White Marlin Release
Weight	9:38, 10:09, 10:53, 11:46, 2:22
Angler	Vicky + Debbie McCann, Maria Herron, Suzette Frank
Boat	Sea Slammer
Date	08/01/14

On the first day of the 6th Annual Ocean City Marlin Club Ladies Tournament, the team on the "Sea Slammer" returned to Sunset Marina with 5 white marlin releases and held on to win first place in the Billfish Release Division. The lady anglers hooked the whites while trolling ballyhoo in the Norfolk Canyon. Fishing with Capt. Chris Martin and mates Mike Runk and Chuck Gregory were Charlene Frank, Vicky McCann (2 releases) and Debbie McCann, Maria Herron and Suzette Frank with 1 release each. The "Sea Slammer" team took home $12,240 in award money.

These anglers on the "Fish Whistle" took an overnight trip to the Wilmington Canyon and captured 5 bigeye tuna and 2 yellowfin tuna totaling 950 lbs. All the fish were caught on trolled ballyhoo and the heaviest bigeye tipped the scale at 197 lbs. The largest yellowfin weighed 50 lbs. Pictured are Billy Gebhart from Lancaster, PA, Bill McMahon of Lewes, DE, Bob Dunn from Kensington, MD, Trent McMahon from Brookville, MD, Johnny Horning from Laytonville, MD and Capt. Charlie Horning. Weighed at Hook'em & Cook'em.

OCEAN CITY FISHING REPORT

BY LARRY JOCK

As this report is being written on Monday morning (we go to press on Monday evening), the town is buzzing in anticipation of the 41st Annual White Marlin Open. This year, 288 boats will be competing for over $2,600,000 in prize money, which is 26 boats and $125,000 more than last year. The final day of weigh-ins is Friday, and it usually is an exciting one, so you may want to head on out to Harbour Island and check it out.

Make sure you pick up next weeks Coastal Fisherman for full coverage and pictures of the tournament.

Marlin Club Ladies Tournament

The 6th Annual Ocean City Marlin Club Ladies Tournament was held on Friday and Saturday. The weather over the weekend wasn't that great, especially on Saturday when many boats turned around due to rough sea conditions.

Of the 29 boats, a tournament high, 18 fished on Friday. The "Grande Pez" ventured down to the Rockpile where Tamara Sears boated a pair of yellowfins weighing 57.2 and 63.8 lbs. and held on to win 1st and 3rd place in the Tuna Division.

Bernadette Mumford on the "Knot Again" arrived at the scale with an impressive 49.6 lb. dolphin from the Baltimore Canyon and won 1st place in the

Matt Long of PT's Marine joined Paul Turner for a trip to the Fingers where he released his first sailfish. They also caught 2 dolphin before heading to the Great Eastern Reef and landed a couple of keeper flounder and 4 jumbo sea bass. A great day!

Dolphin Division. Fellow angler, Maria Baiocco caught an 18.4 lb. mahi to win 2nd place in the Division.

Monica Freese and Brenda Goodhart on the "Brenda Lou" was next up at the scale with 3 white marlin releases and a blue marlin release. Unfortunately, the mandatory photo or video of the blue marlin was inconclusive, resulting in the blue marlin being recognized as a white marlin and putting the "Brenda Lou" in 2nd place. They ended up losing a tiebreaker to the "Jenny Poo" who also had 4 white marlin releases.

Corky Mock on the "Slaughterhouse" caught a 62.8

lb. yellowfin at the Rockpile to win 2nd place in the Tuna Division.

Finally, on day 1, the always dangerous lady anglers on the "Sea Slammer" arrived at Sunset Marina with 5 white marlin releases to take the top prize in the tournament. The whites were caught and released in the Norfolk Canyon.

On Saturday, only 2 boats came to the scale with anything to weigh. The "Last Call", who after turning around due to rough seas decided to hit the Twin Wrecks where Jen Ott boated a 17 lb. dolphin to move into 3rd place in the tournament. The "Marli" also came to the scale with a 56.4 lb. yellowfin caught at in the Washington Canyon that barely missed 3rd place in the Tuna Division.

Overall, it was another great tournament with some excellent catches in several divisions and more importantly, a lot of smiling faces at the scale.

Ocean Pines Chamber of Commerce Flounder Tournament

On Saturday, we also had the 6th Annual Ocean Pines Chamber of Commerce Flounder Tournament with 231 anglers competing for $2,600 in prize money. This tournament is the only one that goes by length of fish and not weight. Baron Daiker's 21 7/8-inch flounder weighed 5.09 lbs. and broke a 1st place tie with Greg Donahue's fish of the same length, but Greg's only weighed 4.07 lbs. Both fish were caught in the West Channel. Third place went to Shane McCormick with a 21-inch caught behind Harbour Island.

A bad weather forecast prevented this fast growing tournament from having even more anglers, so mark it on your schedule for next year. It really is a lot of fun!

Billfish

We saw numerous white marlin releases up and down the line last week from boats trolling in 60 to 100 fathoms from the Norfolk Canyon up to the Wilmington Canyon. We even saw a few caught around the Hot Dog. On Tuesday, the "Let It Ride" had 7 white marlin releases in the Washington Canyon.

Some blue marlin were also hooked throughout the week. On Tuesday, the "White Lighting" was trolling in the Washington Canyon where they released an estimated 500 lb. blue marlin. On Wednesday, the "Nontypical" released one estimated at 700 lbs. outside the Washington Canyon. Also on Wednesday, the "Offshore Outlaw" brought a 514 pounder back at the dock after it died during the fight in the Poor Man's Canyon.

A sailfish was released by Matt Long on Wednesday during a trip to just outside the Fingers and a spearfish was caught and released in the Baltimore Canyon on the "Knot Again" during the Ladies Tournament.

Tuna

Bigeyes continue to be boated in the Washington and Wilmington Canyons, which should make it interesting for those in the White Marlin Open.

The big catch of the week came on the "Fish Whistle" when, during an overnight trip to the Wilmington's East Notch on Tuesday and Wednesday, anglers boated 5 bigeyes weighing between 137 and 194 lbs.

On Wednesday, the crew on the "Marli" also had a memorable trip with 4 bigeyes hooked in the Washington.

Most of the other bigeyes we saw during the week came from the Washington Canyon, except for a few caught in the Wilmington.

Yellowfins and longfins were also caught in the Wilmington Canyon but the better bite was in the Washington where a couple of boats had double digit days on the troll and the chunk.

The bluefin bite around the Hot Dog and the Hambone looks to have petered out.

Dolphin

We are seeing dolphin all over the ocean and one angler even caught a baby dolphin in the bay.

As mentioned earlier, the 49.6 pounder caught in the Ladies Tournament in the Baltimore Canyon is the largest one caught in Ocean City so far this year. We also saw nice size dolphin caught in all the canyons in addition to around the Jackspot, the Bass Grounds, the Hot Dog and the Twin Wrecks. The Jackspot, in particular, has produced some really nice size dolphin over the last couple of weeks.

Sharks

We don't have much to report on shark catches, but the news that had everyone stirring in Ocean City was the 1,000 lb. tiger shark cruising the bay waters behind Ocean City. The tiger shark, named Septima, was tagged by a non-profit organization called OCEARCH back in May 2014 off the coast of Hilton Head, South Carolina. After heading up the Atlantic Coast and spending some time off Virginia, Septima entered the Ocean City Inlet on Friday, August 1st and sent a satellite transmission at 2:29 in the afternoon from behind 44th Street. It doesn't look like it didn't stay very long with it's last transmission coming on Monday at 6:14 AM off the coast of Atlantic City.

I haven't heard many reports of actual sightings of the fish, but I'm sure many will develop over the next few weeks.

Flounder

In the bay behind Ocean City, flounder fishing was not bad last week. We are in our typical summer mode with a good number of fish being caught but dominated by fish too small to keep. Some keepers were found in the West Channel and in the Middle Channel, north of the Rt. 50 Bridge. A hot spot continues to be along the west side of the bay, just on the south side of the Rt. 50 Bridge. Now is the time to fish the deeper holes in the bay where larger flatties are lurking.

I'm hearing that minnows are producing more keeper flounder than Gulp! artificial baits which had been a strong performer so far this season.

Anglers venturing outside the inlet and hitting ocean structure are really tearing up big flounder. Capt. Monty on the headboat, "Morning Star" reported "ferocious" fishing on some days and Capt. Chris on the headboat, "Angler" and Capt. Kane on the charter boat, "Fish Bound" also had some great days as well.

Croaker

Croaker fishing is still strong all over the bay behind Ocean City and Assateague Island. Baiting up with Fishbites is the best way to bend a rod, especially for kids who love the non-stop action croaker fishing can provide.

Upcoming Tournaments

With the White Marlin Open ending on Friday, we actually have an open weekend for tournaments. The next one on the schedule is the world famous, Capt. Steve Harman's Poor Girls Open at Bahia Marina. This is the largest ladies only billfish tournament in the world and is a blast to watch at the scales. Weigh-ins will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 4:00 PM to 7:30 PM. Proceeds from the tournament go to benefit breast cancer research.

See you at the scales!

231 Anglers compete in 7th Annual Ocean Pines Chamber of Commerce Flounder Tournament

Baron Daiker of Reisterstown, MD captured a 21 7/8-inch flounder to win 1st place in the 2014 Ocean Pines Chamber of Commerce Flounder Tournament and a check for $1,646. Baron's fish weighed 5.09 lbs., breaking the tie with Greg Donahue's 21 7/8-inch flounder that weighed 4.07 lbs. Baron was fishing on the "Baron Sea" with his dad, Rich Daiker when he hooked the winning flounder in the West Channel, just south of the Rt. 50 Bridge while using bunker for bait. Pictured at Pines Point Provisions and Seafood.

Second place in the 2014 Ocean Pines Chamber of Commerce Flounder Tournament was won by Greg Donahue of Ocean Pines, MD with a 21 7/8-inch flounder worth $682 in award money. Greg's flattie tied for first place based on length, but fell short in weight, coming in at 4.07 lbs. versus the winning 5.09 lb. winning fish. Greg caught a couple of flounder while fishing on the "Green Submarine" with Finn McCabe, Brad McCabe and Brian McCabe (not pictured) in the West Channel. The final boat to arrive in the 2014 Ocean Pines Chamber of Commerce Flounder Tournament had Blaine Smith on board with a 20 5/8-inch flounder, good enough for 4th place in the tournament. # DRIFTIN' EASY

BY SUE FOSTER

I've been getting a lot of questions about using Fishbite bloodworm alternative lately. How much do I use? Are they as good as real bloodworms? Come on now, do they really work? What fish bite on them?

Well, nothing works as well as a real, live bloodworm, but Fishbite bloodworm alternative is the next best thing! Third in line would be a live night crawler.

"They look like bubblegum. How could such a thing work?"

Well, there is a story behind the package. Actually, there is a scientist behind the package. If you go to their website (www.fishbites.com) you will find this background story of how Fishbites were invented:

"Fishbites is the result of a lifelong passion for fishing and decades of scientific research. Carr Specialty Baits, Inc., maker of Fishbites, is a family-owned and operated business founded in 2000 in St. Augustine, Florida, by avid angler and world renowned marine researcher Dr.

William Carr.

A University of Florida professor for more than 30 years and a founding scientist of the C.V. Whitney Marine Laboratory in Marineland, Florida, Dr. Carr devoted his career to studying the feeding behaviors of marine species. His pioneering research methods led to key findings about the chemical stimulants fish use to detect and track their prey.

What Carr discovered, contrary to popular belief, is there is little in common between what humans smell in the air and what fish detect in the water. Fish can only detect and react to chemicals that have been dissolved in water. Odors that persist in the air do not necessarily dissolve in water and are therefore not detectable or attractive to fish.

Hence, Carr Specialty Baits focused on replicating natural, water-soluble feeding stimulants in the lab, and then creating a more refined and potent form of them. Along the way he also discovered that flavor was equally important in hooking a fish. It wasn't enough that fish merely check-out the bait with a quick nibble. They had to want to eat it because of the flavors associated with the smell they're detecting. Having now discovered this two-part formula, Dr. Carr then took that highly refined and concentrated flavor/scent and created an underwater delivery system that stays on the hook much better than natural bait and keeps emitting flavor/scents many times longer than natural baits. Fishbites were born. This ingenious breakthrough represented a new era in fishing bait technology. The Fishbites line of products continues to grow with more flavor/scents and more hi-tech materials to infuse our flavor/scents into. Our mission was, and still is, to produce clean, convenient, environmentally friendly, and very effective alternatives to natural cut bait and live bait. Today, we're not only hooking thousands of fish, but hooking new believers from coast-to-coast."

Fishbite Bloodworms look like bubblegum strips but act like bloodworm. The long lasting pack, in the blue package, has a white mesh that helps hold the bait on the hook. When the red bait is gone, only the white mesh is left behind and you need to cut it off the hook. The red package of Fishbite bloodworm does not have any mesh. It is called fast release, and does not last nearly as long. The blue package, with the mesh is the most popular, but there are a few anglers that do not like cutting off the mesh and prefer the red package. Yes, that's me!

"How big of a piece do you use?"

Depends on what you are catching. If you are catching small bait fish like spot in the canals or up at Northside Park at 125th St, you only want a tiny piece. If you are targeting something like croaker while drifting in the bay, you can go to an inch long strip. For croaker in the bay, orange crab or clam Fishbites are also effective. They www.coastalfisherman.net are larger, thicker and last even longer on the hook than the Bloodworm. You can also combo your Fishbites with a little strip of box squid or piece of clam if you are targeting larger croaker in the bay while drifting in your boat.

If you are surf fishing for kingfish, larger spot or croaker, many anglers like to use a piece about an inch long and combo the Fishbites with a little strip of box squid or carefully cut a strip of finger mullet or fresh bunker. I like to wait and catch a legal bluefish or spot and fillet that up in small strips with a sharp knife and put that on the hook with the Fishbite strip. Hint: If you scale the fish, it's easier to put the strip on the hook. Use a pre-made kingfish rig with size #6 hooks.

If the bait is on your hook for a long time without a bite, cut it off and put on a fresh strip of Fishbites. This can make a big difference. This is true of all fishing and baits. You need to change them once in a while!

"Do they work as well as real bloodworms?"

You will get lots of answers to that question. For a fish like a croaker that eats about anything, the answer is usually YES! As for spot, I think there's nothing like a real bloodworm, but if they are biting fast and furious, it doesn't much matter. One thing is for sure, Fishbites will stay on the hook a lot longer than a real bloodworm, and you won't catch ANY fish if you don't have any bait on your hook! They are also half the price and you can keep them in your tackle box almost indefinitely, but be sure to zip-lock them back up or they will dry out.

Anglers that are not familiar with bloodworms need to know one thing so they do not scare their kids. Bloodworms have suckers that can grab hold of you like a leech! You need to put them on a cutting board and cut them into pieces. Then they can't bite! You only need a small piece of bloodworm and you need to thread it on the curve of the hook. There is no need to put a whole bloodworm on the hook this time of year. (Maybe in the spring and fall for stripers!) Use small hooks for bloodworms or Fishbites this time of year. It's a waste of time to use them on a large hook! You will get nibbles but no fish!

Nightcrawlers are really freshwater bait and have no blood in them. They will work in the bay for croaker and spot as long as the fish are biting fast. Nightcrawlers will wash out quickly. Again, you just need a small piece to cover the hook. Nightcrawlers are half the price of Fishbites, so they are the least expensive bait to use. Not the best, but the least expensive worm to buy.

"Will stripers bite on Fishbites?"

Usually real bloodworms are best for stripers. Occasionally someone will catch a striper on Fishbites but it is not the norm. Kingfish, spot, blowfish, sand perch and croaker are the fish that like Fishbites the best.

"Are there any other brands of Alternative Bloodworm Baits that work as well as Fishbites?"

Well, some people like the Berkley Gulp! version of bloodworms but sales will tell you the tale. We go through thousands of packs of Fishbite bloodworms per season and dozens of packs of the Bloodworm Gulp!

It's easy, clean, environmentally friendly, and it works! What more could you want?

Good fishing...

Steve Armbruster of Lancaster, PA must have slept like a baby after the offshore trip taken on the charter boat, "White Lightning" with Rusty Lavelly, Joe Nibali, Tim and Andrew Stout, Capt. Luke Blume and mate John Griffith. Steve released a blue marlin, estimated at 500 lbs. and captured a 193 lb. bigeye tuna. In addition, the anglers ended their day with another bigeye, weighing 148 lbs., 5 yellowfin tuna and a dolphin, all caught on trolled ballyhoo and spreaderbars in the Washington Canyon. Pictured at Sunset Marina.

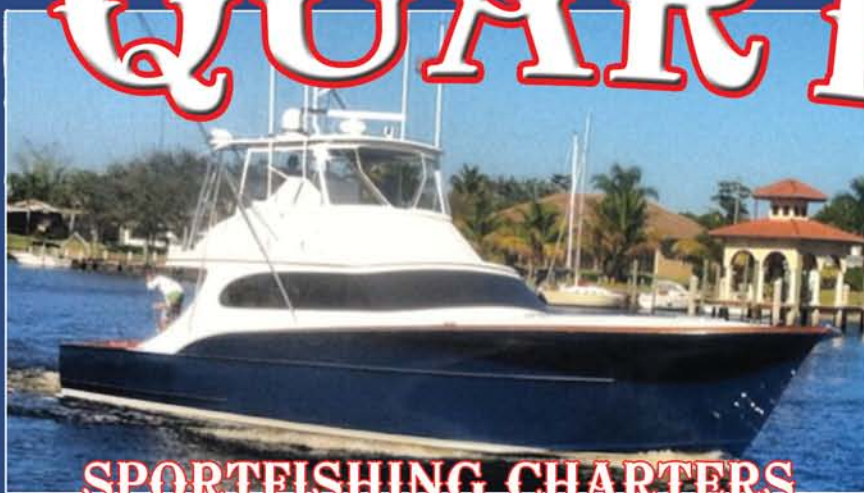

Zach, Josh, Terry and Mark Spence from Newark, DE caught 8 flounder (4 pictured) while fishing at Site 10 off the Delaware coast. The anglers were fishing on the "Makai" with Capt. Larry Coyle and mate Joe Coyle. Josh landed the largest flounder of the trip, a 26-incher that weighed in at 6 lbs. 8 oz. Their 8 flatties weighed a total of 29 lbs. on the scale at Hook'em & Cook'em.

OCEAN FISHING CHARTERS

Jim Weidman was on a 2-day fishing trip out of Lewes, DE when he caught this 135 lb. swordfish in the early morning hours while using squid for bait in the Baltimore Canyon.

It may not be the greatest picture, but it was a really good catch when the "Offshore Outlaw" returned to Bahia Marina with a 514 lb. blue marlin and a 46 lb. wahoo. The blue marlin died 90 minutes into the fight after it attacked a horse ballyhoo in 150 fathoms in the Poor Man's Canyon. Fishing with Capt. Jeff Landis and mate Mel McGinnis were Matt Burns, George Cole, Jason Belford, Bill Winkler and Chad Tingle.

Mike and Anika Zima left the war zone known as Chicago, IL for the peaceful surroundings of the Eastern Shore where they went fishing on the headboat, "Judy V" with Capt. Ed Wheedleton and caught a 2 lb. sea bass on a chunk of clam and a 2 lb. flounder while fishing with shiners at Site 10 off the Delaware coast. Weighed at Hook'em & Cook'em in the Indian River Marina.

Rick Heck from Pasadena, MD caught a 14 lb. 4 oz. mahi, Ryan Rubenstein from Ashburn, VA landed a 4 lb. 12 oz. flounder and Jeff Kernez and Bob Rubenstein each landed sea bass while fishing on the headboat, "Morning Star" with Capt. Monty Hawkins and mate Jake Shaffer and Jake Knox. The flounder and sea bass were caught while bottom bouncing and the mahi was hooked on an OC Lure while trolling between artificial reefs. Pictured at the Ocean City Fishing Center.

David, Jonathan, Amanda and Julianne Skoner, Casey Burk, Chris Pickett, Joe Sforza and Kevin Wood are all smiles after ending their day with 12 yellowfins and 25 mahi in the box of the charter boat, "That's Right". The fish were caught in the Washington Canyon with Capt. John Oughton and mate Anthony Frascatore.

Terry O'Conner, Sr., Terry O'Conner, Jr., Sean O'Conner and Keri Ann O'Conner ended their trip on the charter boat, "Fish Bound" with 65 sea bass, 30 ling, 7 flounder and 2 dolphin, the heaviest of which weighed 21 lbs. The fish were caught on natural bottom near the Jackspot on squid and Gulp! artificial baits. Capt. Kane Bounds was at the helm and mate Nick Pfeiffer was in the cockpit. Pictured back at Bahia Marina.

Frank and Mabel Rowland from West Deptford, NJ are all smiles after catching a pair of nice size dolphin at the Jackspot. The anglers were fishing on the charter boat, "Last Call" with Capt. Frank Pettolina and mates Franky Pettolina and Chris Evans. In addition to the mahi, the anglers also caught bluefish and bonitas.

DELAWARE FISHING REPORT

BY LARRY JOCK

Joe Morris at Lewes Harbour Marina said flounder fishing is still the most popular game in town. Delaware Bay reef sites yielded fluke, but the bite was limited to the time of tide changes. Flatties bit best at the end of slack water through the first half hour of moving current. Jigging Spro bucktails sweetened with a strip of fresh cut croaker was a hot combination. Elijah Brown boated a 5 pound flounder while fluking in the Bay aboard the "Lil' Angler II".

Sunday started out as a crappy weather day, but ended up as a good catching day. Captain Brent left the dock late and headed to Brown Shoal, but still managed to put together a batch of 32 keepers for flukers on the "Katydid".

Ocean flounder seemed to cooperate during more of the tide than those in the Delaware Bay. Many flatfish came from reefs 9, 10 and 11. Word of the good fishing drew quite a crowd of boats at the sites on fair weather days, so sometimes maneuvering on the structure was tricky. Open bottom of the Old Grounds continued to be productive as well, with spots southeast of "DB" Buoy and northwest of "DA" Buoy giving up fluke. Rigs sporting hair teasers

Not to be outdone by Captain Brent Wiest on the "Katydid", mate Chris Vann decked a 7 lb. flounder on his new lucky rod and reel while fishing with squid and shiners at Site 10 off the Delaware coast. Weighed at Lewes Harbour Marina.

baited with squid, shiners, smelt or strips of fresh cut croaker or sea robin were favored offerings. Bucktail jigs tipped with 5 or 6-inch Gulp! artificials proved deadly for flatties.

Captain Pete hosted the gang from Hidden Acres Sawmill on Monday aboard the "Top Fin", and they jigged up a limit of 28 quality keepers at Site 10. Seven of the fish were over 5 pounds. Anglers on the "Katydid" returned with a boat limit of flatties. Capt. Brent took big fish honors of the day with a 7.73 pound doormat he caught from up top on the bridge. Wednesday's regulars on the "Katydid" rounded up their limit of 40 keepers while drifting ocean structure. Lou Pennella and the boat's mate, Chris Vann, each caught 7 pounders. Larry and Joe Coyle, along with Tyler Brown took their limit of flatfish on Wednesday at Site 10. Joe landed the heaviest, weighing 6.37 pounds. Bill Hughes fished again Wednesday on the "Miss Kirstin" and boated a 5.4 pound fluke. Wayne DeMarco, Joe Pergeorelis, Josh Wilkers and Doug Mickowski worked the Old Grounds on Wednesday for their limit of flounder. Dave Walker took Matt Shoup, Amy and Patrick Conroy, and Clara Hollingsworth to Site 10 on Wednesday to capture and bring back 20 flat ones. On Thursday, local flukers aboard the "Katydid" put 28 keepers in the box, including John Gudknecht's 5.4 pounder.

The "Katydid" was over ocean reef rubble again on Friday, and returned with a full limit of 36 fluke weighing up to over 4 pounds.

In addition to flounder, bottom bouncers connected with plenty of croakers in the Delaware Bay. Reef Sites 5 and 8, and the edge of the Anchorage near "G" Buoy held hardheads. Kingfish, spike trout, puffers and snapper blues were mixed in on reef structure. Croakers and big spot were also caught in the Lewes Canal, Roosevelt Inlet and in Broadkill River all the way up past Oyster Rocks.

Rockfish roamed the Canal too. Slot sized stripers were caught around the drawbridge using pencil eels.

Boaters working the rocks of the Outer Wall and Ice Breakers had some tog, triggerfish, sheepshead and spadefish. Rodney Shoemaker and "Booker" Bookwalter kept 9 chunky blackfish at the Wall on Friday. Booker battled a citation tautog weighing 7.44 pounds. Bob Meyers pulled a 3 pound triggerfish off the Outer Wall using sand fleas on Sunday.

Offshore, anglers found yellowfins, longfins and billfish in the Wilmington Canyon. Charlie Horning on the "Fish Whistle" trolled the Wilmington's East Notch on Tuesday evening, pulling ballyhoo skirted with Joe Shute Lures and landed 4 bigeyes. The crew laid over and went 1 for 2 on another pair of eyeballs at first light on Wednesday. Back at the scales, the five tuna ranged between 137 and 194 pounds.

Inshore trollers found some pretty decent dolphin and a few white marlin at the Hot Dog. Nick Strait and Ethan Davis decked mahi of 15 and 18 pounds at the Dog aboard the "Chasin' Tail" with Captain Mike Faust.

Further south, Capt. Bert Adams at Hook'em & Cook'em said that the waters in the back bay and in the Indian River Inlet are absolutely loaded with croaker. He said that they are so thick that flounder fisherman are having a tough time getting their bait to the bottom. Anglers fishing in the Inlet are also catching a few stripers during the day and at night along with some bluefish out towards the jetty.

Croakers can also be found in large numbers outside the Inlet to 3-miles off the beach on various ocean structure.

Flounder fishing in the ocean was fantastic right until the weekend's nasty weather that created dirty water conditions. Bert said the key to successful flounder fishing is getting the right drift, between .5 and 1.2 knots. If you could get the right drift, the bite was red hot around "DA" and "DB" Buoys, at the Old Grounds and around Site 10.

Anglers out of Indian River are also having a good time fishing for triggerfish and spade fish around Fenwick Shoal, where they are also hooking into bluefish as well.

Offshore, the charter boat, "Capt. Ike" returned from an overnight chunking trip in the Washington Canyon where they ended up with 20 yellowfins in the box.

Anglers are also returning with solid catches of blueline and golden tilefish after dropping squids in the Canyons.

Until next week, tight lines!

Matt Nibali from Baltimore, MD released a white marlin while fishing with Michael Boland from Brunswick, GA and his son, Michael from Glen Burnie, MD, Joey and Joe Nibali from Orange County, CA, Rusty Lavelly from Atlanta, GA, Capt. Luke Blume and mate John Griffith. The anglers also had a great day tuna fishing, decking 12 yellowfins while chunking in 200 fathoms in the Washington Canyon. Pictured at Sunset Marina.

Bella Fenton from Poynor, MD is all smiles after she caught and released this 27-inch black drum during a trip aboard the charter boat, "Lucky Break" with Capt. Jason Mumford (pictured) and mate Jason Sturgill. The black drum ate a chunk of clam on the north side of the Assateague Bridge.

Guy Petrucci, Rob Giza, Kevin Kramer, Nick Crist, Alex Farren and Randy Bell captured 2 bigeye tuna, 3 yellowfin tuna and released a white marlin, all during an overnight trip aboard the charter boat, "Restless Lady" with Capt. Todd Kurtz and mates Will Hathaway and Sean Welsh. The fish were caught on the troll in 200 to 300 fathoms in the Wilmington Canyon. The bigeyes weighed 152 and 199 lbs. and the largest yellowfin tipped the scale at 61 lbs. Weighed at the Talbot Street Pier.

Jim Azato and Price Lindsay, both from Lewes, DE caught their limit of flounder (4 pictured) while fishing with Gulp! artificial baits at Site 10 off the coast of Delaware. Their largest flounder measured 23 inches and weighed 4 lbs. 13 oz. on the scale at Bill's Sport Shop.

Craig Grauer released his first white marlin after hooking it on a green skirted ballyhoo in the Baltimore Canyon. Craig was fishing on the "Fish Tank" with Jim Martini and Capt. Mike Tremi.

Aaron Caplan was fishing with Heather Dabroski and Adam Mirabelle in his 26-foot walkaround when, after landing a 5-foot dusky shark, this 15-foot Great white shark attacked their outboard motor a couple of times and circled the boat for over an hour. It tried several times to eat the hull of the boat before losing interest and heading off after wolfing down their entire chum bag.

Becky Forloine, Maria Berkheimer and Andrea Berkheimer hooked 3 yellowfin tuna after having their lines in the water for only 40 minutes while fishing between the Hot Dog and the Hambone. The lady anglers were on the "Faze Four" with Mike and Nate Berkheimer and caught the tuna on trolled spreader bars and skirted ballyhoo.

Combine the butter, lemon juice, garlic, salt, pepper and basil in a medium saucepan and cook over low heat, stirring until the butter melts.

Cover and keep warm over low heat.

Heat the oil in a large skillet over medium heat.

Season the fish with salt and pepper, to taste.

Cook the fish for 3 minutes; then turn and cook until just opaque, about 3 to 4 minutes more.

When serving, spoon the warm basil butter over the fish.

Serves 4.

Tuna Pasta with Poppy and Dill

Salt and pepper
¾ of a box of fettuccine
pasta
½ lb. tuna fillet
1 TBSP. extra-virgin olive oil
2 shallots, finely chopped
3 cloves garlic, finely chopped
1 TBSP. poppy seeds

½ cup white wine
½ cup heavy cream
¼ cup dill, chopped
2 large eggs, hard boiled and chopped

In a large pot of boiling water, add the pasta and cook until al dente.

Drain and set aside; keep warm.

Season the tuna with salt and pepper.

In a large skillet, heat a drizzle of olive oil over medium-high heat.

Add the tuna and cook until just opaque, about 6 minutes.

Let cool; flake into small pieces.

In the skillet, heat 1 TBSP. of olive oil.

Add the shallots and garlic and cook for 3 minutes.

Stir in the poppy seeds for 1 minute, then pour in the wine; cook until slightly reduced.

Stir in the cream, lower

4 weakfish, skin on
Salt and pepper, to taste
¼ cup dry white wine or water, if needed

Heat the butter and oil over medium heat in a skillet with lid.

When the butter foam
subsides, add the garlic,
rosemary, onion, celery,
carrot and thyme.

Cook, stirring occasionally, over mediumlow heat until the vegetables soften.

Add the tomato; season with salt and pepper.

Cook for 3 minutes, then lay the fillets on top of the sauce.

Cover and cook until the fillets are white and firm, about 5 to 8 minutes.

Remove the fillets to a

Roasted Sea Bass Fillets with Tomatoes

4 medium fresh ripe tomatoes, sliced ¼ in. thick

½ cup minced scallions, green and white parts

¼ cup olive oil

1 tsp. minced fresh rosemary or basil

¼ cup fresh parsley, minced

Salt and black pepper to taste

1 ½ lbs. sea bass fillets,

skin off

Preheat oven to 450 degrees.

Layer two thirds of the tomatoes on the bottom of a nonstick or lightly oiled baking dish, and sprinkle with half the scallions, most of the olive oil, half the herbs, and some salt and pepper.

Top with the sea bass and the remaining ingredients except the remaining parsley.

Roast, uncovered, until the sea bass is done and the tomatoes have liquified, about 15 minutes.

Serve immediately, with the sauce spooned over the fish and sprinkled with the remaining parsley.

Serves 4.

Ted Proseus from Millsboro, DE, Mike Puttanite from Tabernacle, NJ, Andrew and Dave Reier from Baltimore, MD, Bobby Telford from Iowa City, IA and Bob Telford from Pocomoke City, MD teamed up to land 4 bigeye tuna while fishing on the charter boat, "Marli" with Capt. Mark Hoos and mate Mark Stephens. The bigeyes and a white marlin were all hooked on trolled, skirted ballyhoo in 200-300 fathoms in the Wilmington Canyon. The largest bigeye weighed 175 lbs. on the scale at Sunset Marina.

CHUM LINES

BY CAPT. MARK SAMPSON

Menhaden, or "bunker" as most of us call them around here, are sort of the unsung heroes of our coastal waters. Packed with more oil and bones than the La Brea Tar Pits, it doesn't matter who you are or how hungry you are - no human eats bunker. And since they're filter feeders that just swim along straining phytoplankton from the water while trying not to get eaten by other fish or caught in a net, bunker are not even good for catch-and-release fishing because they're not going to bite a line, at least not until the day that someone finds a way to put microscopic plants on a hook!

Just the same, most fishermen are very aware that bunker make an excellent bait, I guess because we know that darn near everything that swims enjoys munching on the little swimming cans of WD-40, including whales, sharks, tuna, bluefish, striped bass, dolphin (the fish AND the mammal), flounder, seatrout and... well you probably get the point - everything!

And bunker seem to be everywhere, from way up in the marshes of the back bays to the canals that run through Ocean City, to 10-15 miles offshore. This time of the season it's hard to find a place where there aren't schools of bunker flashing, spinning, and rippling the surface of water as they carry on with their daily antics of chasing down a bellyful of teeny-tiny plant matter while trying to avoid being eaten. Of course, the bunker we all see in the bay are just little guys, and if you pay close enough attention you can just about watch them sprout up over the weeks from June, when one-inch youngsters will go right through the mesh of an average cast net, to four-inch adolescents that will just about swim off with a net if you pitch it over too many at one time.

Ocean waters hold a different class of bunker altogether. Running eight, to maybe twelve-inches, these are adult fish that sometimes show in schools that cover many acres of the ocean's surface. The thousands and thousands of fish in a single school will often darken the water like shadows from summer clouds, but what's seen from above is just the tip of the proverbial "iceberg" as the schools can sometimes be more than 30-feet deep. It's incomprehensible to my simple brain how many fish can be in these schools, let alone off our coast at any give moment of the summer.

Now, back to the subject of fishing. As I've already mentioned, anglers know darn well that, for some reason, a lot of sea critters like to eat bunker, therefore, they often make for a good bait. The problem can be catching the darn things and then keeping them alive, or at least in a fresh enough condition that they will still be good bait when we're ready to use them. Bunker are stinky, slimy, slippery things that don't freeze well, turn soft and mushy soon after their death, and even if properly chilled, won't stay fresh more than a couple days. The best advice is to catch and keep just what you can use today and tomorrow and figure on getting re-supplied every couple of days.

Catching the little bay bunker requires a cast net and the ability to throw it. Then, with net in hand it's just a matter of walking the docks and bulkheads until a bunch of swirling fish are found close to the surface and then making a cast accurate enough to cover the school. Sometimes the early mornings and late evenings will prove to be the best time to find schooling bunker, but it usually depends upon the location and state of the tide.

Forget about housing them in a little minnow bucket. Bunker need clean water and a lot of room to swim, so keeping them alive requires a decent size bait tank with a healthy exchange of saltwater. Smaller bunker can be used alive or dead, both inshore and offshore, to catch anything that will eat a small fish, from flounder and stripers in the back bays to tuna and dolphin in the canyons. At times they've also proven to be a great bait for sea bass over the ocean wrecks.

Ellie Wells was looking cool while fishing on the "Cheesehead" with her dad, David Wells when she caught and released her first bluefish in the bay off 3rd Street in Ocean City. Ellie hooked the 8-incher on a pink feathered skirted hook baited with squid.

Though big ocean bunker won't bite a hook, they can be snagged with treble-hooks rigged above a bank sinker. Cast over the school, let it sink 20 or more feet down and then rip the hooks through the school. Big bunker can be kept for a little while in a live well, but not for long, so if the intention is to use them as live bait, it's really best to use them right away, otherwise they should be buried in ice and used in the next day or so. Big bunker can be cut up and used in the surf, or anywhere else a chunk-type bait is needed. They can also be fished alive under a float or slow trolled behind a boat.

No one has ever, or will ever, be seen on the cover of a fishing magazine or the Coastal Fisherman holding up a "trophy bunker." But certainly many of the catches of game fish that have adorned such publications were possible only because of the existence of these "lowly", but important fish.

Captain Mark Sampson is an outdoor writer and captain of the charter boat "Fish Finder".

Nick and John Nolan came all the way from San Francisco, CA to Ocean City, MD and spent some time fishing on the charter boat, "Ocean City Guide Service" with Capt. John Prather. The duo ended their trip with 3 keeper flounder, measuring between 16 1/2 and 17-inches, caught on live minnows during the incoming tide. Pictured at the Ocean City Fishing Center.

BY STEVE KATZ

STEVE'S MARINE SERVICE

We are midway through 2014 White Marlin Open week and I hope everyone is having a good time fishing, watching or even working.

When you leave the dock for a day on the water, it is important you know the weather for that day or a few days before and after your trip. While many boaters watch and monitor the weather in advance of their outing, many would also like be kept up-to-date when they are out on the water.

If all you need is basic information, then the audio marine weather broadcasts on the Marine VHF radio may be very helpful. This is a free weather service, broadcast by the United States government's local NOAA office in the area where you can receive their signal. These weather broadcasts are not always specific to boating and there are usually a few different broadcasts found on the 7 active VHF marine weather channels. Refer to your VHF instructions on how to operate the tuner to listen to the marine weather broadcasts. Other radios such as the Fusion 700 series stereo has the marine weather band receiver built-in as well as specialty weather radios.

If you are close to shore and have internet access on-board, there are many weather services available through the internet that can provide you with the current and forecasted weather. Websites and apps such as Weather Underground, The Weather Channel and NOAA provide comprehensive weather information for no-charge.

For those who want or need more detailed and comprehensive information, a few websites and apps offer detailed and specific marine weather and usually charge a subscription fee. These websites include buoyweather.com, sailflow.com and fishweather.com.

For those who travel afar, or plan to go on an extended voyage, there are weather routing services that act as a consultant to help plan your voyage based on the actual and forecasted weather. One such company is WRI (Weather Routing Inc. Their website is wriwx.com. They individually prepare forecasts that are customized specifically for each vessel's needs and location, and WRI meteorologists are available for consultation 24 hours a day, 365 days a year for subscribers.

While not exactly the same as the weather forecasts services above, there are ones that customize their weather reports for fishing, such as www.coastalfisherman.net Roffer's Ocean Fishing Forecasting Service (often referred to simply as Roffer's). This service is a fishing forecasting analysis that is both a graphical report and written analysis with suggested "hot spots" of where to catch the fish. They receive and use the infrared (temperature) and visible (water color, chlorophyll, and turbidity) data from all functioning U.S. (NOAA and NASA), as well as, other international (e.g. European and others as launched) earth observing satellites. In addition, they use a variety of public and private high frequency radar, ship, gliders and buoy data that have proven to provide reliable information. There are other similar services such as SSTOL.com and [Hilton's realtime-navigator.com](http://Hilton's realtime-navigator.com) that focus on the fishing aspect of the weather.

If your boat is equipped with modern navigation electronics, you probably have the capability to add your own satellite weather receiver to your multifunction display. This hardware allows you to view up-to-date and future weather information for most areas of the US and Caribbean out to 100 miles or more offshore. This information is broadcast in real time, directly to the antenna on your boat from orbiting satellites. Both Sirius and XM offer weather services along with the compatible hardware for most major brands of chart plotters such as Furuno, Simrad, Garmin, Raymarine and Lowrance. These services allow you to see weather such as high-resolution radar, lightning, satellite imagery, buoy data, sea surface temperatures and more, right on your display(s) in real time.

There are two major sources that provide this satellite weather, XM and Sirius - who have recently merged their audio music operation but still offer two weather services. The weather data services may be combined into one offering soon.

Sirius Marine Weather comes from WSI, an industry leading, professional weather service supplier. WSI serves federal, state and local governments along with marine, aviation, agriculture, media and energy industries with expertise in analyzing, forecasting and presenting weather information. WSI combines NOAA data with information from other government, research, commercial and proprietary sources to create timely, accurate weather information using the most reliable, sophisticated analysis methods and processes in practice today.

SiriusXM weather is available on Raymarine, Furuno, Simrad, Garmin, Lowrance and other products. The cost for a weather module is about $700, depending on the manufacturer, and the monthly subscription package can cost up to about $50 a month. The hardware consists of a "black box" receiver and an external satellite antenna.

The XM satellite weather is a product of Baron Services, through its WxWorx division. Baron collects weather data from a variety of sources, including the Department of Defense, National Weather Service and various commercial providers. It interprets, verifies and packages the data for instantaneous distribution over the XM satellite network.

The WxWorx company also offers their weather service to other marine hardware manufacturers, but is computer based.

XM weather is available on Garmin systems (primary older hardware) and some computer based platforms such as, Big Bay, Nobletech and others. XM marine weather subscriptions can cost up to $50 per month.

One of the best bargains for weather is Furuno. They offer a great free weather service called Navcenter Weather, for owners of the NavNet TZT GPS chartplotters. The weather data file is downloaded through an internet connection directly to the chartplotter. This free service has detailed data for water conditions such as plankton, chlorophyll and satellite altimetry along with the traditional weather forecast. Although it is not live data once you leave internet coverage, you can download the weather right before you depart the dock with the most up-to-date weather for the day. If you have a TZT system and need more information on how to use this feature, check the Furuno website for a instructional video.

As we all know, weather can change rapidly and unexpected weather can turn a good time on the water into a miserable trip, so please be sure to check the weather before you go boating and stay up-to-date during your trip.

MARYLAND FISHING CHALLENGE

boats

WORLD FISHING NETWORK

WHAT: A free fishing contest sponsored by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, providing the chance to win prizes for checking in your eligible catch of any of over 80 species categories, including: flounder, croaker, weakfish, kingfish, sea bass, striped bass, tuna, sharks, marlin and many others.

WHERE: Submit your catch - or photo(s) of your catch if submitting a catch & release entry - to a participating tackle shop. If your catch meets the minimum size requirement, you will receive a confirmation ticket, which will contain information on how to submit your entry online. DNR will then send you your Angler Award certificate and your pass to the Maryland Fishing Challenge Finale in September at Sandy Point State Park.

WHEN: The contest runs through midnight, September 1, 2014 (Labor Day).

SPECIAL YOUTH CATEGORY: The Maryland Fishing Challenge features a special category to award prizes to randomly-selected members of the Maryland Youth Fishing Club who provide entries to the online DNR Youth Angler's Log. To join the free online Maryland Youth Fishing Club, go to: www.dnr.state.md.us/fisheries/keepfishing. The club is open to anglers ages 6 to 15 years old.

Adam, Jonathan and Pam Genn from Baltimore, MD and Clark Seniff from Frederick, MD had more tuna than they could hold after fishing on the charter boat, "Rhonda's Osprey" with Capt. Joe Drosey and mate Ryan Greenway. The anglers caught 12 yellowfins while chunking in the Washington Canyon. Pictured at Sunset Marina.

Chris, Matt, Brad and Lisa Stauch caught a limit of flounder plus 4 more for Capt. Kane Bounds and mate Nick Pfeiffer while fishing on the charter boat, "Fish Bound" at an artificial reef. The largest flounder measured 24-inches and weighed 5 lbs. 13 oz. All of the fish were caught on Gulp! artificial baits and squid. Pictured at Bahia Marina.

During a trip aboard the charter boat, "Marli" with Capt. Mark Hoos and mate Mark Stephens (pictured), Kyle Sunseri caught and released his 1st white marlin after hooking it in 300 fathoms in the Wilmington Canyon. The "Marli" is docked at Sunset Marina.

Anglers on local headboats are having some stellar days lately fishing for flounder on ocean structure. This group on the "Morning Star" returned with flatties up to 24-inches and some sea bass after fishing with flounder belly, dolphin belly and clams. Luke Wolf landed the 24-incher that weighed in at 4 lbs. 14 oz., Bo Hellier, Terry Burgess and George Henning all caught flatties over 21-inches and Trevor Lawrence captured a 16 1/2-inch sea bass during the trip. Pictured at the Ocean City Fishing Center.

On opening day of the 2014 Ocean City Marlin Club Ladies Tournament, Tamara Sears caught a pair of yellowfin tuna, weighing 57.2 and 63.8 lbs., to win 1st and 3rd place in the Tuna Division. Tamara was fishing on the "Grande Pez" with Michele Goodson, Christine Svehla, who released a white marlin, Capt. Pat Svehla and mate Jake Emche. The yellowfins were caught on trolled ballyhoo near the Rockpile and won the "Grande Pez" anglers $1,795 in award money. Pictured at Sunset Marina.

In the 2014 Ocean City Marlin Club Ladies Tournament, Bernadette Mumford caught a 49.6 lb. bull dolphin and Maria Baiocco added a 18.4 pounder to win 1st and 2nd place in the Dolphin Division. Both mahi were caught on trolled ballyhoo in the Baltimore Canyon where the lady anglers also boated a pair of longfin tuna and recorded a spearfish release. Also fishing on the "Knot Again" with Capt. Joe Joachimowski and mates Darryl Scuse and Dickie Mumford were Krissi Baiocco and Wendy Cioll. For their 1st and 2nd place finishes, the "Knot Again" team took home $6,939 in award money. Pictured at Sunset Marina.

In the 6th Annual Ocean City Marlin Club Ladies Tournament, Corky Mock muscled in a 62.8 lb. yellowfin tuna to win 2nd place in the Tuna Division. Corky was fishing on the "Slaughterhouse" with Pam Hess, Heather Hess, Kim Baer, Capt. Mark Hess and mate Ron Baer. The yellowfin was caught on a trolled ballyhoo near the Rockpile and earned the team $1,714 in award money. The anglers also landed a couple of dolphin during the trip and Heather Hess released 2 makos.

Jenn Pastorius and Kristen Brown teamed up to release 4 white marlin in the 2014 Ocean City Marlin Club Ladies Tournament and won 2nd place in the Billfish Release Division. The anglers tied the "Brenda Lou" team with 4 releases and won the tiebreaker based on the time of their last release. The ladies were fishing on the "Jenny Poo" with Capt. Buddy Sorace and mates Bobby Pastorius and Zeb De Toya. For their 2nd place finish, the "Jenny Poo" team won $2,754 in award money. Pictured at Sunset Marina.

Anglers on the "Last Call" braved some rough seas on Saturday during the 2014 Ocean City Marlin Club Ladies Tournament and were rewarded with a 17 lb. dolphin, good enough to take over 3rd place in the Dolphin Division. Jen Otto boated the dolphin after hooking it on a trolled cedar plug at the Twin Wrecks. Jen was fishing with Jen Pettolina, who landed a 14.8 lb. dolphin, Maddie Pettolina, Missy Van Fossen, Katie Grant, Capt. Frank Pettolina and mates Franky Pettolina and Chris Evans. For their 3rd place finish, the "Last Call" team won $891 in award money. Pictured at Sunset Marina in West Ocean City.

Third place in the Billfish Release Division of the 2014 Ocean City Marlin Club Ladies Tournament was won by the team on the "Brenda Lou" with 4 white marlin releases. The anglers claimed that one of the marlin was a blue marlin, but the mandatory video evidence was inconclusive, turning the release into a white marlin release. Although the "Brenda Lou" and the "Jenny Poo" tied for 2nd place with 4 white marlin releases, the "Jenny Poo" won the tiebreaker based on the time of their last release. Fishing with Capt. Frank Goodhart and mates David Connor and Chris Hardey were Brenda Goodhart and Monica Freese. The marlin were released on trolled ballyhoo between the Wilmington and Baltimore Canyons and earned the team $756 in award money for their 3rd place finish. Pictured at Sunset Marina.
